

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Visitation Group #4 will meet tonight with James & Dolores Pence.

High Plains Children's Home

Help raise our kids living at High Plains Children's Home by filling a can this summer in our 33rd annual "Change for Children" campaign.

This year's goal is to raise $45,000.00, and with $25 in your can, we're there!

On the Lighter Side ...

While visiting a modern art museum, a lady turned to an attendant standing nearby and said, "This, I suppose, is one of those hideous representations you call modern art?"

"No madam," replied the attendant. "That one is called a mirror."

Do You Know ?

16. What man and his wife expounded the way of God more perfectly to an “eloquent” preacher?

17. Who wrote we should “speak as the oracles of God”?

18. Where do you find “churches of Christ” in the New Testament?

19. Who said that Christ purchased the church “with his own blood”?

20. Who were told to “feed the church of God”?

16. Aquilla and Priscilla. Acts 18:26. 17. Peter. 1 Pet. 4:11. 18. Romans 16:16. 19. Paul. Acts 20:28. 20. Ephesian elders. Acts 20:28.

Is The Church Broken?

You hear comments in Bible classes that amount to what’s wrong with the church, what we’re doing wrong, what we’re not doing, and what it’s doing to us, our children, and the world. You read people’s minds through their social media rants, raves, and ramblings, and the bottom line message is that the church is inept, irrelevant, irresponsible, or, worse, insidious. To hear some tell it, the church is not only unhelpful, but actually hurtful. I know that we can be prone to say things out of hurt, disappointment, anger, and bitterness, but the words themselves are no less potent even if influenced by such emotions.

Is the contention, as one Christian sister put it, that “the church is broken,” true? Another way to put that is, “Are elders, preachers, deacons, Bible class teachers, and every other Christian broken?” Perhaps we impersonalize it and overly-institutionalize it with a nameless, faceless designation of “church.” But the church is, as we were taught as children, “the people.” People who are prone to say the right thing at the wrong time, the wrong thing at the right time, and, sadly, the wrong thing at the wrong time. We disappoint, we mishandle, we poorly execute, we unfairly judge and criticize, and we simply blow it. That is definitely not an excuse or a permission slip for bad behavior. Yet, it is not likely to ever change.

Because the church is made up of sinners saved by grace, the church is broken. We who are quick to condemn the church as broken need to face that we ourselves, as those placed by Christ into that church when we were saved, are broken, too. Show me the perfect person who never mishandles a situation, never sins with tongue, attitude, or deed, and I’ll show you someone who will stand before Christ at the Judgment saved on the basis of their own merit and goodness. That won’t happen.

Let’s be reminded of what the church is. It is the precious, beloved bride of Christ (Eph. 5:22-25; Rev. 19:7; 21:2). It is that institution purchased by His very life’s blood (Acts 20:28). It is that which was thought up by God from the eternity before time as is the expression of His manifold wisdom (Eph. 3:9-11). It is the place where Christ is glorified (Eph. 3:21; 5:27). It is the present the Son will present to His Father when time is no more (1 Cor. 15:24). It is that and truly so much more.

God designed the church. Reckless criticism of it is reckless criticism of Him. All of us should be determined to improve in every area of our spiritual lives, to be for others what we need to be, to conquer faults and sins in our lives. We should also extend to others the grace we intensely desire to receive when we stand before the King at the last day! Yes, the church is broken, but not in the sense that it cannot help, serve, minister, love, and encourage. Let each of us strive to be the church we want the church to be. Model and exemplify it. Emit the fragrance of Christ. That way, the broken church can help mend the broken lives that make it up.
